

Evaluation Of Non-Coronary Cardiac CT Findings

Yang Faridah Abdul Aziz

University of Malaya, Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia

Computed tomography (CT) is an effective non-invasive imaging tool to image the body and with the advent of multislice CT scanners and ECG-gating, imaging of the heart has been revolutionised. While numerous articles had been written on coronary artery imaging, this talk will focus on advancements made in non-coronary artery imaging.